AON

Creation of New Aon Social Media Accounts

Standard Operating Procedure

Digital Marketing Center of Excellence

In our ongoing effort to maintain a cohesive online presence and optimize Aon's impact on social media, we have developed this policy to provide clear guidelines for the creation and management of new Aon social media accounts.

Purpose of Policy

This policy aims to provide clear guidelines to increase brand awareness, grow our followership, prevent potential brand dilution and ensure efficient resource utilization in the management of Aon's social media presence.

Policy Guidelines

Creation of Aon social media profiles, groups and accounts on existing or emerging platforms

Per Aon's Social Media Policy and Participation Guidelines, colleagues should refrain from creating new Aon social media profiles, groups or accounts without approval from the Digital Marketing Center of Excellence. Unapproved accounts bearing the Aon logo are subject to deletion, with or without prior notice. For the use of the Aon name, trademarks or logo on approved channels, please seek approval from socialmedia@aon.com.

Region-specific accounts

The Digital Marketing Center of Excellence advises against creating region-specific social media accounts to maintain a consistent and unified brand presence globally. This approach minimizes confusion and the risk of brand dilution that may occur when we segment our audience excessively across different regional accounts.

On LinkedIn, we recommend used targeted posts on the global Aon LinkedIn account or using one of our existing offering-specific LinkedIn Showcase pages when relevant (a list of these pages are available on the Social Media Toolkit page). Utilizing the global Aon LinkedIn account for regional posts ensures that our brand messaging is coherent, maximizes our reach, and allows us to leverage the substantial following that the main account has already accumulated.

Before Requesting a New Account,Take Time to Consider the Following

We recognize the potential value of expanding our digital presence by establishing new social media accounts. However, we also understand that each new account must contribute to our overall strategic goals, reflect our brand values and provide genuine value to its target audience.

When considering a new account, take into account the following key areas:

- Goals: Establish clear objectives for the proposed account. This includes success measures and an exit strategy for potentially inactive accounts, as dormant pages can negatively impact our brand image.
- Audience: The proposed account should have a specific target audience, and there should be a clear understanding of how this audience aligns with the account's goals. Keep in mind that we already have means to target specific audiences using our existing channels and paid social options.
- Platform Choice: Ensure that the selected platform is ideal for reaching and engaging with the identified audience. Consider the strengths and audience demographics of each platform before making a choice.
- Content: The content strategy should align with the Aon United Editorial Strategy. The plan should take into account the real-time nature of social media, and there should be a commitment to providing consistent, relevant content that appeals to the target audience.
- Account Settings: There must be a clear plan for account administration, including the primary and secondary account managers. Ensure that there is a succession plan for the account administration to ensure continuous management.
- Resources: Ensure the availability of adequate resources for managing the account. This includes a dedicated social media manager, sufficient budget for advertising and creative assets and a content plan that ensures a consistent stream of quality posts aligned with Aon's brand strategy.

Once you have considered these criteria, please fill out the Social Media Account Application and send to socialmedia@aon.com to initiate a conversation about your request.

Alternative Approaches

If you're considering creating a new account and it doesn't meet the criteria above, consider these more efficient solutions:

- Take note of the Aon offerings your content aligns with and prioritize posting content on the existing LinkedIn Showcase Page. (These are specialized pages that are an extension of Aon's main LinkedIn Page. A list of these pages are available on the Social Media Toolkit page).
- Refer to Aon's Corporate LinkedIn Publishing Guidelines for instructions on how to target posts on the main Aon LinkedIn Page

  Rule of thumb: content published to Aon's main LinkedIn account must be targeted to a specific audience. Double-check that you've selected a target audience before publishing e.g., by region, Industry or role level. Non-targeted posts must be removed and re-published to the appropriate audience(s). Review these instructions on how to target while publishing content through LinkedIn and Hootsuite.
- Some countries and regions already have regional accounts open.

  Submit the Social Media Access Request Form to get posting access to any of these accounts. Note that consolidation of Aon Social Media accounts is underway, which may result in some pages merging into others.
